VOLUME 2

Dear Reader,

Volume 1 of The Taverners presented an amazing amount of information in shorthand form. Its object, to put down as much information as possible to help any other researcher.

Already, during the preparation of Volume 1 more information has become available.

Volume 2 contains chapters about the origins of the name, the Taverner Coat of Arms, and Taverners County-by-County.

CHAPTER 1

Did the Taverners fight with William the Conqueror in 1066?

Mostly family researchers try to trace their ancestors back to the battle of Hastings.

Some recent research has shown that very few if any family can claim for certain to have been with William.

The Battle Abbey Roll is a list of people supposed to have fought with William. The original has been lost, but it was probably a fourteenth century production. A number of copies exist, all unfortunately different.

In his excellent book "My Ancestors came over with the Conqueror" by A.J. Camp, published by the Society of Genealogists, Anthony Camp list giving references - all the names in the Battle Abbey Roll copies, and writes in heavy type those names almost certainly proven to be at the battle.

We find "TAVERNER (ref 1&3) Tauerner Cleveland III 192".

CHAPTER 2

TAVERNER. ORIGINAL MEANING OF THE NAME.

(This piece supplied by a distant Irish relative).

On the face of it the origin is Latin: Tabula = a board. Taverns = a shed, tent or booth. In Roman times there was a tribe called Tabernae inheriting what is now Flanders or N. France. In time the "b" came to be softened to "v". Bearers of the name from being dwellers in tents came to signify inn keepers.

SPELLING:- The continental form is generally Tavernier. The English has many variants. The earliest form taken from official documents is le Taverner (see genealogical tree of Norfolk & Hertfordshire). State documents shown an occasional Tavernor. Church registers in Lancashire (Bolton & Wigan) shown the Taverner form, and about Nuneaton Tabberer. I have seen it also in the form Tafner, Taviner. Possibly Verner is a variant. Sir Ed. Verner, who is at a loss how it was derived, directed me to write to Scotland but the answers I got were negative. In 1685 the house of one Verner, near Belfast, became shelter for persecuted Scotch refugees after the battle of Rotherwell Bridge. There was a Christian Taverner who brought a dowry to a member of the Gladstone family located in South Scotland.

ORIGINS OF THE NAME

Variants of the Name include:- Taverner, Tabenor, Tabiner, Tavernor, Taviner, Tavenor, Tabner and of course Tavener. Often the V looks like a u so we get Tauerner.

In a single broadsheet of Taverner Genealogy published by "The Hall of Names" - a very dubious source it says that "William the Conqueror gave land to The Taverners in Essex for their distinguished service to their Leige Lord at the Battle of Hastings. They were lords of the Manor of Uxminster in Essex".

I can find no Uxminster in Essex the nearest name I find is Upminster - Upmynstre in 1602.

In the domesday records of 1083 'Taverner' is not mentioned anywhere in either Essex, Norfolk or Devon

For Upminster 3 owners in lordship are mentioned

1. MAUGER
2. WALTER of DOUAI (Douai is a village 100km south of Lille)
and
3. HOLY CROSS

Below are the actual entries from the Domesday Book, Essex.

Hundred of CHAFFORD MAUGER holds Upminster from the Bishop which Walfwin held 1 1/2 hides (1 hide = 20 Acres). Then 2 small holders, now the same always 1 plough value 20S now 30S.

Terra Walti de Doui, Land of Walter of Douai. Walter holds UPMINSTER in Lordship which Swein Stewart held as a manor for 6 hides and 30 acres.

Always 8 villagers, then 5 smallholders now 7, always 4 slaves, 2 ploughs in lordship item 5 mens ploughs, now 4. Woodland, 200 pigs, meadow 8 acres, then 1 foal now none, now 85 sheep and 25 sheep value then £7.00 now £8.00. 10 acres lay in this manor which Geoffrey de Mandeville holds in exchange as he states.

(Walter also owned Rainham in Lordship and Holland in the hundred of Tendering).

8.10. Holycross holds Upminster for 2 1/2 hides + 40 acres. Then 8 villagers now 6; then 2 smallholders now 4, then 4 slows now 3. Always 2 ploughs 300 pigs, meadow 6 acres item 20 sheep now 50, then 11 pigs now 30.

I wrote to the Society of Genealogists concerning the Hall of Names information their reply is interesting.

"The paper you enclose is quite worthless from a historical point of view. The name Taverner means 'tavern - house keeper'. In the period in which surnames became hereditary in this country many different and unrelated people would have kept such houses in different parts of the country. They may all have had different backgrounds and ancestries. Whether one was of Norman decent would have no bearing on any other. Certainly nobody of this name can be proved to have been at the Battle of Hastings. Although the name appears on two versions of the discredited Battle Abbey Roll".

The letter by the Director abstracted above makes this line of research somewhat irrelevant.

In another letter to the Essex County Council archives on the same day 9.1.92 I asked for confirmation that the Taverners were associated with Upminster. Jane Smith, the principal archivist replied:-

"I am afraid I have been unable to find any Taverners on Lords of the Manor of Uxminster or Upminster.....". This gives further evidence that the Taverners were not given the Upminster Manor by William of Normandy.

The official origin of the name Taverner is supposed to have sprung up spontaneously during the 12 and 13th century describing anyone who owned a Tavern. For some reason the name was not usual. This is strange since there were more Taverns than Smithies, so there should be more families with the name Taverner than those with the name Smith. * A recent reference corrects my assumption - see Over.

Another suggested derivation is that a 'Taverner' was a socially elevated wholesaler of wine and spirit. This is interesting since the early Taverner records we have, largely feature courtiers, shipping connections and wine importers. That the Taverners came over with William the Conqueror in 1066 seems unlikely, but what is more likely is that they came over with his court to provisions it with French Wines and Cognacs that no doubt William was accustomed to drink. This could explain why when our first records start in 1260 the Taverners are Lawyers, Barons of the Cinque Ports, Imports & Exporters associated with the King's and Queen's of the day. This connection with the court continues right through to King James in 1618 and beyond.

Our confirmation of this Norman Origin comes from a reference in the Calendar of Genalogica 1272 - 1304.

On page 765 One Nicholas le Taverner a Norman is recorded as having died in Wycombe-atte-Haarede.

My current theory is that somewhat after 1066 once William's court was in full swing the Taverner's started to provision it with wines and spirits and probably export English produce to France as well. As reward the Taverners were given positions at court made assessors of the customs, given titles to land either in the counties or at the important ports of that time.

I have shown elsewhere how well off and prosperous families tended to have a good survival rate and marry well. So that between 1066 and say 1266, 6 or 7 generations could have spread themselves over the countryside and have gained good positions within their chosen communities. Elder sons would have been well educated and probably at court, younger sons would have gone into commerce, the church or the army or navy.

The population of England stayed at about 4,000,000 from the black death in 1348 till about 1560.

The density of population varied from around 25 people per square mile to 5 people per square mile. Essex where many of our ancestors were born had a low population with one of the lowest incomes.

Statistics are available showing population and population densities. This is useful in getting an idea of how many families lived in a county or other geographical area.

TAVERNS - says Haydon's Dictionary of Dates 'published in 1868' - originally owned by George Alfred Chapman, father of Miss Chapman, who owned our house in Taverton. dying here aged 94 in 1976 - may be traced to the thirteenth century

"In the reign of King Henry III 1217 - 1272 only three Tavernes were allowed in London. One in Chepe, one in Walbroke, and the other in Lombard-street." Taverns were restricted by 7 Edward VI (1552-3) to 40 in London 8 in York, 4 in Norwich, 4 in Gloucester 4 in Chester 3 in Hereford, 3 in Worcester 3 in Southampton, 3 in Canterbury, 3 in Ipswich, 3 in Winchester, 3 in Oxford 4 in Cambridge, 3 in Colchester 4 in Newcastle, 3 in Westminster 6 in Bristol, 3 in Lincoln, 4 in Hull 3 in Shrewsbury, 4 in Exeter, 3 in Salisbury (spelman).

The Boar's Head in Eastcheap, existed in the reign of Henry IV (1399-1413) and was the rendezvous of prince Henry and his dissolute companions.

Shakespeare mentions it as the residence of Mrs Quickly and the scene of Falstaff's merriment. (Shakespeare Henry IV)

The White Hart, Bishopsgate, established in 1480 was rebuilt in 1829

Taverns were licensed in 1752

From the Domesday Survey of Essex in 1086 we learn that there were 5 to 10 people per square mile, ie. about 55,000 people in total. The population grew by 25% between 1086 and 1377 in Essex in 1377 the population is estimated at 70,000.

The population controlled by the black death remained fairly constant until Henry 8th reign when in 1538 Thomas Cromwell instigated parochial registration. By 1650 the population doubled, doubling again by 1750 and again by 1840.

In Essex between 1540 and 1680 births and deaths averaged about 7,000 p.a. with marriages at 2-300 p.a.

Essex people were relatively poor and tax was valued at under £5 per square mile compared to Norfolk which was valued at £14 per square mile in 1225.

Of interest also is the population of London which is estimated as:-

450,000	in	1660
575,000	in	1700
675,000	in	1750
980,000	in	1800
2,000,000	in	1841

In early times information is scarce. One useful source of information is the Lay Subsidy of 1327.

In this tax 1/20 of a mans moveable belongings were taxed to pay for protection of the realm against the Scots. In Essex 8,326 people payed tax.

By 1327 surnames were common, but it cannot be assumed that they were hereditary before the mid 1300's.

In 1327 9 Taverners paid tax. For details see below this however does not tell us the total number of Taverners.

The Essex Lay Subsidy 1327

Waltero le Taverner of Greenstead.
Galfrido Tauerner of De Bures and Morten (Braintree).
Bartholemew Taverner of Coggershale (Nr Braintree).
Thomas de Taverner of Harlow.
Johanne Taverner of Newport
Thoma le Taverner of Raynes Magna (Braintree).
Jakemanno Taverner of Raynes Magna (Braintree).
Johanne le Taverner of Halstead.
Johanne le Taverner of Chelmesford.

By simply ratioing the numbers from 1327 we can estimate that Essex had 80 - 120 Taverners in 1327, and if the Essex population was 70,000 then 1 in 700 was a Taverner, and the birth and death rate would have been approximately 10 per year with one Taverner marrying every 2-3 years. This give a guide when assessing progress in finding all the Taverners in an area.

Volume 1 of the Taverners was circulated to many County Libraries as well as those people who contributed to it. One of the largest sources - and most costly was Debrett, they wrote 7 reports for me.

With the copy I sent to Debrett I asked their opinion as to how many Taverners were still likely to be missing.

Their opinion - and they should know if anyone does - is that I have about 1/2 the Taverners from 1600 and about 1/3 of those before 1600. Again this is very interesting since we can be pretty certain having tracked down a family to a village that we are probably dealing with relations, even if a direct connection cannot be established.

CHAPTER 3

The Taverner Coat of Arms.

It seems that The Taverners became preoccupied with a coat of Arms around 1575 and after.

During March 1993 I wrote to the College of Arms to find out whether I was truly entitled to use the Coat of Arms of the Taverner family.

For a suitably large fee the Chester Herald wrote listing the entries. For those readers interested in this aspect of Genealogy I attach this report in full. It is rather interesting that the visitations to the various branches of the Taverners produced significantly different family histories.

Dear Mr Tavener

Further to my letter of 10 February the searches which you asked me to make in the official registers of the College in the surname Tavener and obvious variant spellings, to enquire into your own right to arms, have now been completed. I write to report on the results which may be summarized briefly as follows:

Eleven different entries have been located concerning early Tavener arms as follow:

1. N G. 35 A trick (or black and white drawing of arms indicating tinctures) is included which may be blazoned as: (Arms) Argent a bend lozengy Sable in the sinister chief a torteau and (Crest) Out of a ducal coronet a tree (species not shown) Proper which for ease of reference I will call Coat and Crest A. The text recites that 'These Armes and Creast were confirmed to Roger Tavernor of the Countie of Essex esq by Sr Gilbert Dethick Knight als Garter ..... (blank) day of May 1575'.
2. Dethicks Grants 36b. A similar entry to (1) of ?sixteenth century origin.
3. Vincent 162.169. A further entry expands with the text "Roger Taverner of Upminster ..... hath of longe time bene one of the bearers of .... Armes ..... Argent a bend lozinge on the Dexter side a Tourt Gules and to his Crest On a Torse out of y Crowne Gules an Oak tree pper (ie proper) Acorns golde ..... assigned unto his said Auncient Armes the said Crest .....". This is dated May 1575 and is accompanied by a coloured drawing of Coat and Crest A.
4. Camdens Grants 3.27. This shows entries of Coat A with both early and later Crests (see other entries).

Marque + de l'heraldie m
Nicholas T. de l'heraldie m
(Roger in his)

5. C21.49 (Essex Visitation of 1634) (see paragraph 15). This contains a trick of Coat and Crest A with the text "this Creast was given to the saide Roger in regard of his Office of Generall Surveyor to her Maj(esty)". Another entry shows the later Crest (see other entries).
6. EDN. 56.70b This entry concerns a patent of arms dated February 1614 and shows a trick of Coat A (showing an annulet Gules in sinister chief as opposed to a torteau) named for "Taverner of Hexton in Hertford". A Crest is also shown which may be blazoned as: a Dove Argent beaked and legged Gules holding in its beak a branch (no species shown) Vert, which I will call Crest B.
7. Camden 2.29b. This entry refers to "Francis Taverner of Hexton in Com Hertford 15 Feb 1614" and includes a trick of Coat A and Crest B in which the dove's legs are shown Gules.
8. Misc Grants 7.326. This entry expands that in (6) with text reciting that "ffrancis Taverner of Hexton in the co. of Herts son of Peter Taverner of Hexton son of Richard Taverner of Woodeaton co. Oxford Esq eldest son of John Taverner of North elmeham in (blank) Norfolk and brother of Roger Taverner of Upminster in Co. Essex". The blazon shows Crest B as: a dove volant with an olive branch in her mouth.
9. NG. 114. This is a similar entry to that in (6).
10. Camden 1.14b. This also seems to be basically similar to that in (6).
11. 2H5.127b. This entry contains the text of a Grant of Arms by William Camden dated 2 March 1613 (-14) which exemplified and confirmed to "Roger Taverner of Upminster co Essex Esq lineally descended from the ancient house of the Taverners of North Ellingham in Norfolk the ancient arms appropriated to the said family viz Argent a bend fusily Sable on the chief sinister point a Torteaux". The Grant also included "Francis Taverner of Hexton in Co Herts son of Peter Taverner of Hexton aforesaid son of Richard Taverner of Wood Eaton co. Oxford Esq eldest son of John Taverner of Wood Eaton aforesaid and brother to the above named Roger Taverner". The text further recites that the King of Arms "exemplifies ratifies and confirms the said Arms to him by right ancestral belonging and also to restore the ancient Crest thereunto appertaining viz a Dove volant Argent with Wings an olive branch in his beak."

The following pedigree entries recorded here during the period of the Herald's Visitations, which took place between about 1530 and 1685, show a further nine Taverner entries:

12. The Herald's Visitation of Hertfordshire in 1572 includes a five generation pedigree headed by John Taverner of North Elmham who was "son of Nicholas son of Henry of North Elmham who was descended from Warin le Tavernor who lived in North Elmham in the reign of King Henry III as by a deed sealed with ye seal of Arms of the said Warin appeareth". This John Taverner died aged 88 in 1545 having married firstly Alice daughter and sole heir of Silvester of North Elmham and secondly Anne Crane. The pedigree is carried down to the children and grandson of Peter Taverner of Hexton by his wife Francis Docura. The entry includes illustrations of Coat A together with renderings of the seals of the family's ancestor Warin in which it was noted that "the armes in this seale is lossengye and not fucellye as some have suposed". No further genealogical details are included here which are not shown in the extensive printed pedigree referred to in paragraph 14.
13. The 1633 - 4 London Visitation includes a three generation pedigree headed by Robert Taverner of Arnwayes co Essex who was father of Thomas Taverner of the same place who married Anne (blank) and had issue: Robert; Thomas of London merchant tailor (who signed the pedigree) who married Margaret daughter of George Smyth of Mitcham Surrey; and William. No arms are shown with this entry.
14. The 1634 Hertford Visitation includes a five generation pedigree headed by John Taverner of North Elmham carried down to his numerous descendants. A trick of quarterly arms showing Coat A quartering Silvester is included together with a rendering of Crest B. I enclose photocopies taken from the Harleian Society's printed version of this pedigree which more or less corresponds with ours.
15. The 1634 Essex Visitation includes two five generation pedigrees headed by John Taverner of North Elmham by his wife Alice Silvester. One of these shows the descendants of Roger Taverner of Upminster together with a trick of Coat A and Crest A (with a crescent for difference) while the other pedigree shows the descendants of Robert Taverner of Arnoys together with a trick of quarterly arms depicting Coat A quartering Silvester and a rendering of Crest B. I enclose photocopies taken from the Harleian Society's printed version of these pedigrees which more or less corresponds with ours.

16. The 1634 Oxford Visitation includes a four generation pedigree headed by Richard Taverner of Woodeaton and his two wives Margaret Lambert and Mary Harcourt including a trick of Coat A only. A few extra details are shown here which do not appear in the pedigree referred to in paragraph 14 but nothing of great genealogical significance.
17. The 1664 Norfolk Visitation includes a three generation pedigree headed by Thomas Taverner of North Elmham who was father of Henry Taverner of the same place who married Anne Rogers of the City of Westminster by whom he had issue a son Charles. No arms are shown here.
18. Another version of the 1664 Norfolk Visitation includes a trick of Coat A only named for Charles Taverner of North Elmham.
19. The 1664 Essex Visitation includes a three generation pedigree headed by John Taverner of Upminster who married Susan Davis by whom he had a son Roger Taverner of Upminster who married Anne Harrington and had issue. A trick of Coat A together with a Crest depicting an oak tree only is included. I enclose a photocopy of J J Howard's printed version of this pedigree which more or less corresponds with ours.
20. The 1668 Oxford Visitation includes a five generation pedigree headed by Richard Taverner of Wood Eaton in that county who married Margaret Lambert and is carried through to the descendants of their grandson John who signed the pedigree. A trick of quarterly arms is included showing Coat A in the paternal quarter with an inescutcheon of pretence for (?) Smithies together with a rendering of Crest B.
21. An early entry in a volume concerning heraldic funerals concerns Richard Taverner of Wood Eaton co Oxford who died 24 July 1575 "at his manor house of Wood Eaton" and was buried 29 July following in the parish church. Some genealogical details are included but they contain no further information than already reported on.
22. A short search in some printed material (which are not part of our official records) revealed further information from the Harleian Society's versions of the Visitations of Norfolk and "Miscellaneous Essex Pedigrees" of which I enclose photocopies together with Taverner entries from the "Dictionary of National Biography" which gives an interesting resume of the life of the Richard Taverner who is so much referred to in this report.

23. All the other records of pedigrees and Grants of Arms dating from about 1685 to the present time were examined without finding any further entries in the surname Tave(r)ner.

In conclusion although a great amount of ground has been covered I regret that I can find no evidence that George Taverner (whose son was baptised in 1657) or any of his descendants shown on that or any of the pedigrees you sent ever established a legal right to arms or registered genealogical particulars about themselves here. In order for you to claim a right to arms you would need to prove (with documentary evidence) and record here a legitimate unbroken male line of descent from one of the individuals shown on one of the Visitation pedigrees named in paragraphs 12 to 21.

Unfortunately all your successful work in proving your descent seems to fall short by one or two generations which is especially disappointing considering your ancestors lived in the same area as the main family. Perhaps further genealogical research in other categories of records (? in the Public Record Office) might give you the link you need?

If you are able to prove your link eventually I should be happy to be of further assistance if you decide to establish your right to Coat A.

Yours sincerely

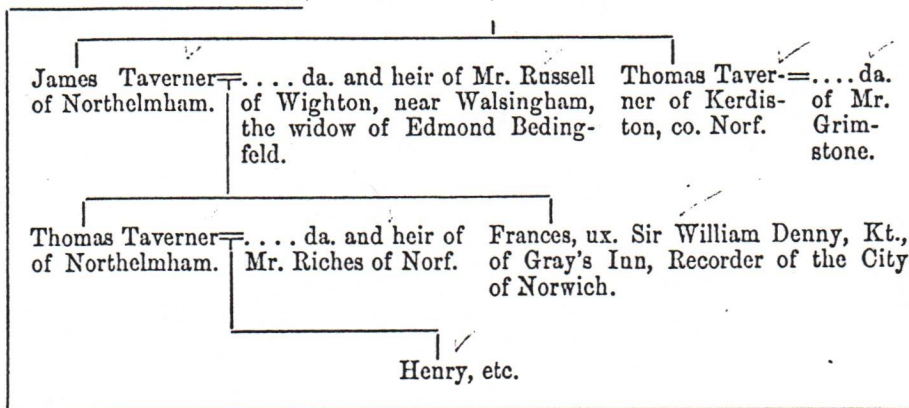

Chester Herald

CHAPTER 4

Taverners County By County Ref: 1992 IGI

The counties can be divided roughly into 3, those in which we find NO Taverners, those containing a few Taverner, and those where a large number of Taverners have lived - and usually owned property.

VOL 2. Focuses on pre 1700.

Firstly those counties Tavernerless. Berks, Cheshire, Cumberland, Dorset, Durham, Hants, Monmouth, Northumberland, Notts, Shropshire, Somerset and Westmorland.

Next those with a few Taverners:-

CHAPTER 5

The Taverners of London & Middlesex

This is a daunting task, mainly because it is so fragmented.

One source states that before 1500 about 1 in 8 of the inhabitants of England spent at least some of their lives in London. After 1500 it was around 1 in 6. Folk would drift into London to look for work, come to London to get married at one of the fine churches, or more permanently in the hope of finding fame and fortune. Others would come for their education or to study law and go to court. Gentry would send their daughters to London to find a suitable husband.

So geographical grouping is often only partly helpful.

After long deliberation of how to present this fragmented picture I have decided to show the information in date order. This may be helpful when correlating the information with other counties.

1545. Land in Austrey & Polesworth
owned by Richard, Robert & Silvester Taverner.

Speculation :-

Richard, Robert & Silvester did not own land in Austrey & Polesworth by accident

Either it was inherited from a relation or they bought the land to help a relation.

Their father John had ~~two~~<sup>a</sup> brothers Thomas and Henry. Robert John's father, Nicholas had two brothers Henry & Thomas

Bartholomew Taverner who died in Austrey in 1551 had 3 sons

Thomas, Henry & Robert.

It therefore seems quite possible that one of the Taverners of North Elms settled in Austrey some time before 1545.
